Dear Dr. Madgett:

Thank you for your manuscript. It is scientifically sound and will be processed for publication.

All authors must access their Author Areas at http://submit.clinchem.org to sign the Copyright Transfer Agreement. Your paper will not be published until all authors have signed their form.

Papers in press are posted online each week once the proof is sent to the authors. The publish-ahead-of-print version of your paper will NOT include corrections that you may make to the proofs. If you see any problems now with your submitted text, please let us know immediately before you receive proofs. We cannot guarantee that text changes submitted AFTER you review the proofs will appear in the prepublication version of the paper. ***

Corrections will appear in the final version of the print issue and in the final online version that is posted when the print issue is mailed.

The electronic version (http://www.clinchem.org) is published at Stanford University's HighWire Press, where your article will be linked electronically with PubMed and to more than 340 other journals that are online at Stanford.

Thank you for the contribution.

Sincerely,

Dr. Carl Wittwer

Associate Editor
